

Surprise Event – Rules and Regulations

General Instructions:

- There will be four teams and each corresponds to a house.
- During the prelims, each team has to select its leader from the registered participants. These leaders are exempted to participate in the prelims.
- There will be three rounds in prelims: (a) General (b) Logical and (c) Artistic
- The leader has to split his/her team into three parts (equally or not equally) and those people should participate the corresponding event.
- If they meet out a threshold level, they are eligible for the main event.
- Now, each leader will be allotted with certain points and they should spend it to buy the selected participants for the main event.
- Each team should have minimum five participants and they can take two more as substitutes.
- In case if a house doesn't have enough participants they can buy them from their respective house (only from the registered participants) by spending extra points.
- Finally the house with highest point will be declared as winner.

Other Rules:

- The main consists of six parts and each corresponds to two rounds of General, Logical and Artistic rounds.
- People selected in the corresponding round can only participate in the events. For example if there is a logical round, participants selected from the Logical Prelims only can participate in that event. It applies to other two divisions too.
- If the logical or artistic round requires more than one participant, one should from the logical or artistic division and others can be from general division.
- Participants (including the leader) cannot participate in the consecutive events.

Plan of Surprise Event

